OVERVIEW

Laura Pascoe is a commercial litigation lawyer, with experience in general liability, public liability, medical and general insurance indemnity advice. She has acted for a large number of Victorian Public Health Organisations in the resolution of litigated and non-litigated claims.

Laura is regularly involved in complaints to the Health Services Commissioner, the Medical Practice Board of Victoria (AHPRA) and the Victorian Civil and Administrative Tribunal. She also has experience in advising on indemnity and construction issues and disputes under insurance policies. Laura regularly attends regional and metropolitan hospitals as well as community service organisations to confer with staff and to investigate actual and potential claims.

Laura has gained an insight into the needs of clients through prior experience as senior legal counsel at a major healthcare provider and secondments to a Victorian government insurer and risk adviser which provided her with a unique understanding of the demands and requirements of the client.
