OVERVIEW

Corey Malone-Smolla is an associate in the firm's Asset Management and Investment Funds practice. In this capacity, she focuses on a wide range of regulatory and compliance matters including assisting registered investment companies and their independent board members with regulatory and compliance matters arising under US federal securities laws, Form ADV disclosures and SEC regulatory developments.

In addition, Corey maintains an active pro bono practice through the firm's Civil Cyber Rights Legal Project.

PROFESSIONAL BACKGROUND

During and prior to law school, Corey served as a policy director for a nonprofit network overseeing legislative and regulatory compliance issues relating to government programs and supporting advocacy initiatives at the federal and state levels. She also served as a summer associate with the firm in 2024. During law school, Corey served as a staffer on the American University Business Law Review. Prior to law school, Corey worked as a congressional fellow at the University of Arkansas School of Law's Indigenous Food and Agriculture Initiative drafting model legislation and regulations for Tribal governments.
