OVERVIEW

William Curtis is an associate in the firm's Finance practice. He represents insitutional investors, banks, private equity sponsors, and public and private corporations as lenders and borrowers in a broad range of corporate and mezzanine financing matters. He has assisted in negotiating a wide range of secured and unsecured credit facilities, including revolving credit facilities, term loans, and first-out/last-out structures.

William's experience includes extensive work in restructuring matters, including representing secured creditors, including financial institutions, private lenders, and credit funds, in bankruptcy proceedings in federal courts nationwide. He has advised clients on out-of-court restructuring alternatives, including receiverships, complex loan workouts, forbearance agreements, and assignments for the benefit of creditors.

PROFESSIONAL BACKGROUND

Prior to joining the firm, Will was a member of the restructuring groups of national and international law firms, where he represented secured creditors in complex Chapter 11 proceedings, debtor-in-possession financing matters, and commercial loan restructurings, including large syndicated credit facilities. Prior to beginning private practice, Will served as a Law Clerk to the Honorable Joseph N. Callaway of the United States Bankruptcy Court for the Eastern District of North Carolina.
