OVERVIEW

Sreya Thomas is a senior litigation lawyer with experience in personal injury, workers' compensation, and general liability matters. She acts for government-insured entities in the defence of general and public liability claims, sensitive institutional liability matters and recovery proceedings.

She assists clients throughout all stages of litigation, from preparing legal documents and developing case strategies to representing clients in negotiations and litigation proceedings. Her experience extends to court proceedings, including trial hearings, and provides practical legal advice on a range of contentious matters.
